FOLLOWING INCREASES

Irrespective of personal opinion there is no denying the fact that Huey Long and Father Coughlin are drawing larger audiences every time they speak over the radio.

And there is also no denial of the fact that their following is growing day by day. Although General Johnson is a master of invective he is running a poor second in his combat with these two men who are daily denouncing the New Deal and all its works.

CHANGE OF SENTIMENT

There has been a tremendous change in sentiment since the beginning of the year and its volume has grown to proportions that constitute a menace to the Administration, and to the result of the next presidential election, which, until a short time ago was considered a walk-away for Roosevelt.

A DEMOCRAT SPEAKS

When doubt and criticism come from Texas, always considered the hotbed of Democracy and a State that could be depended upon to stick to party and party leaders, whether right or wrong, it is high time for those in authority to stop, look and listen and incidentally take inventory.

Here is the way a Democratic editor of the Lone Star State describes the situation there:

"Opinion in Eastern Texas, rural sections as well as small towns and villages, is fast changing from favoring the New Deal to that of a quagmire—wondering where the end is to come and doubting figures which show that times are improving—believing such figures are being sent out by governmental agencies of publicity to create favor and as bullhorns. Such rural sections are not however, supporting either Father Coughlin nor Senator Long, except in rare cases and these are where people hope to get something for nothing and without having to work. They hope that the Democratic Party might select a leader who can hold party lines together but who will not resort to the too liberal methods and ideals of President Roosevelt."

The quotation, it is conceded is mild, but in the final analysis it is really expresses criticism of the leadership of Mr. Roosevelt.

EXPERIMENT TOLD JURORS BY WITNESS

SAN JOSE, April 2.—UP—Repeated experiments substantiated David Lamson's claim that his wife accidentally fell to her death in the bathroom of the Lamson home, Dr. E. O. Heinrich testified today in Lamson's retrial on murder charges.

Dr. Heinrich told of conducting a series of experiments with his secretary, Mrs. Christine Phelps, in which the probable line of fall taken by Mrs. Lamson's body was simulated.

SLEPPED IN TUB
He was forced to conclude, he said, that Mrs. Lamson slipped in the tub, fell, striking her head against a nearby wash basin, and slipped to the floor of the bathroom, Lamson claims he entered the room, saw his wife's body and attempted to lift her. As he did so her body slid back into the tub, with the arms and head remaining outside, he claimed.

The State insists that it would have been impossible for Mrs. Lamson's body to have assumed such a position if she had fallen to her death, Lamson, it is charged, beat his wife with an iron pipe, inflicting fatal head wounds.

SLID INTO TUB

Jr. Heinrich said that on three trials Mrs. Phelps' body slid back into the tub in the identical

TRIAL OPENED IN ESCAPE TRY

SAN RAFAEL, April 2.—UP—Frank C. Sykes, chairman of the State Board of Prison Terms and Paroles, escaped being murdered in the recent San Quentin prison kidnapping-break by four convicts only by the margin of a misfired cartridge, Warren Atherton, another board member, testified today in the trial of two convicts involved in the escape.

Atherton said Alex McKay, on trial with Joseph Kristy for kidnapping three parole board members, leveled a gun at Sykes' head and pulled the trigger. The hammer snapped, but there was no discharge, Atherton stated.

The defense sought to prove the snafu might have been merely the safety lock, but Atherton said he did not believe so.

Sykes succeeded him on the stand, retelling the wild flight of the convicts with their hostages. Of the four escapees, two are on trial, Rudolph Straight was killed in the capture and Fred Landers pleaded guilty.

District Attorney Albert Bagshaw, in his opening statement, claimed Fred Barnes, another convict was the leader but had been thrown into solitary as the hour for the break approached and Landers was substituted.

Landers chose to plead guilty and take life imprisonment rather than chance being hanged, but the other two insisted on a trial.

FEAR STRIKE THREATS OF NEW STRIKE DECREASING

WASHINGTON, April 2.—UP—The New Deal has quelled a serious labor crisis which threatened to paralyze spring production in several key industries.

Word that all is comparatively quiet on the labor front has been sent to Moscow, to be relayed to President Roosevelt as he enjoys a brief fishing holiday in the Caribbean.

Administration officials who say the chief executive this way, saying the strike situation had narrowed to the plight of workers in four industries and that fears of a wave of sympathetic strikes had passed.

PICTURE TOLD F. D. R.

Here is the picture they painted for Mr. Roosevelt:

1.—Bituminous coal miners will continue at work until June 15 when authorities are confident a new agreement on wages and hours can be perfected with operators.

2.—There will be no immediate textile strike.

3.—A strike may occur in the rubber industry but it will affect only one or two plants.

4.—One or two automobile plants may be forced to close by strikes but the walkout will not cripple the entire industry.

SITUATION IMPROVES

Two reasons are given for the general improvement in the situation which admittedly was menacing as Mr. Roosevelt left the capital for his holiday. First, the capital

Income Tax Bill Vote Comes Today In The Assembly

SACRAMENTO, April 2.—UP—Assemblymen unlimbered their heavy artillery tonight as they prepared for a series of battles scheduled for the remainder of the week beginning tomorrow, with consideration of an income tax bill, the first of Gov. F. Merriam's taxation proposals.

The income tax measure, made a special order of business for 11 A. M. tomorrow on motion of Assemblyman Ford Chatters of Lindsey, was expected to afford the first definite test of administration strength in the lower House.

While the Democratic bloc favors an income tax, it was indicated there would be strenuous opposition to the Merriam proposal on the ground the rate of one-third of federal income taxes is not nearly high enough to balance the "poor man's sales tax" levy.

DETROIT, April 2.—UP—With voters mobilized from 234 of 315 precincts a clean sweep of all eight State offices today had apparently returned Republicans to complete power in Michigan as a result of yesterday's election.

David H. Crowley and Mrs. E. M. Cram, Republicans, led the ticket in the race for reentry of the University of Michigan, while Winan Wilbers, Republican, with a vote of 302,428 apparently had secured the State Board of Education.

M. E. Keyworth, Republican, led the Democratic incumbent, Paul M. Voelker, 311,283 to 228,781 for Superintendent of Public Instruction. Two Republicans, C. L. Brody and W. H. Kerkey, apparently had been elected to the Board of Agriculture.

2 TANKERS ARE MOVED BY OWNERS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—UP—A federal mediator heard tonight a proposed arbitration of a dispute between tanker operators and the United States Coast Guard over a violation of law by the latter of a tanker operator.

Old tanker operators have moved five tank ships with a capacity of 10,000 tons each, to the coast of California, to avoid a federal law which requires that tankers be licensed by the Coast Guard.

DELAY ACTION

A statement issued by the United States Coast Guard today said that the United States Coast Guard has delayed action on a matter which is being handled by the United States Coast Guard.

Two tankers, moved in the last afternoon, The Associated Press said, were moved from Seattle with a full cargo of fuel oil for an announced northwest coast, while the General Petroleum, Ticon, and other tankers were moved.

Both were manned with non-union crews. Associated Press said still is loaded and ready to sail to Martinez, but tanker operators believe the movement, particularly to the northwest would ease off the cause of the threatened gasoline and fuel oil shortage in Oregon and Washington has been relieved for the present.

SEATTLE, April 2.—UP—The first shot was fired today in the war between the International Seamen's Union and operators of oil tankships.

The ineffective shot was the signal for a tightening of organization of pickets, police and bus-nessmen in Seattle and Portland harbors.

CALIFORNIANS
SEE VICTORY IN BIG MEET

BERKELEY, April 2—UP— If they get the "break" in every event, and especially in the high jump and two mile, the University of California track team has a slim chance of upsetting the Trojans of Southern California, local observers believed tonight.

Bud Spicer, U. S. C. high jumper, has been consistent at 6 feet 2 inches this spring, an inch higher than any of the Bears have leaped, but all are expected to improve in the Coliseum pit.

Both Hugh Thompson and Art Jacques, California jumpers, reached 6 feet 3 last year, and Coach Brutus Hamilton believes they may go as high when they meet the Trojans, Saturday, at Los Angeles.

In the two mile, Fred Lantz of U. S. C. has turned the eight laps in 9:28 but may lap the mile also. Saturday, which California fans believe will give Bob Fowler and Les Moorhead a fighting chance for first and second place points.

Playing steady baseball that brought a grin to the face of Coach Phil Hempler, the Richmond Union high school baseball club yesterday trounced the Mt. Diablo club by a score of 11 to 5 at Concord.

Today the local boys will meet the Vallejo Apaches at Nicholl Field at 3:30 while on Friday the local club will see action against Alameda at Nicholl Field in the first A. C. A. L. baseball game.

In yesterday's contest, the Richmond team pounced upon the Mt. Diablo pitchers in the first inning to score six runs. The first Richmond man up drew a walk; the second singled and then Moore stepped up and smashed out a triple. Freddy Ball next hit a homer. A fielder's choice and an error brought two more runs for the locals.

In the second inning, a walk and two hits scored two more runs for the Richmond team and in the seventh inning, two errors and a two bager from the bat of Putney scored three additional runs.

Edwards was on the mound for the local squad and up to the eighth inning he had allowed only five hits—never more than one bingle to an infield, Edwards was hearing down on every pitch. With the game on ice, Coach Hempler instructed the young chucker to ease up and let the infield and outfield do their share of work. As a result, Edwards lobbed them over as easy as possible and the Concord team scored five runs in the eighth inning. Two hits, a fielder's choice, a walk and a home run by Lombardi scored the only tally for Concord.

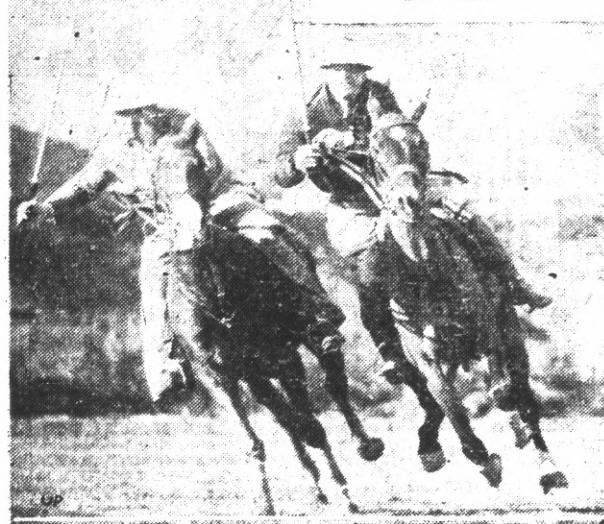

Boltz was behind the plate for the local squad. As a result of yesterday's victory, Coach Hempler last night expressed belief that his team should have a good season.

vote, 410 to 134, and adjourned until May 26, leaving the Premier and his ministers practically dictators of France's destiny in the coming dangerous weeks, while the allies seek to check Germany's thrust to the peace of Europe.

Flaunders, in one of the most powerful peace-time speeches ever made in the French parliament, assured the nation his administration was having nothing to do to protect France from another invasion. He said that the High Military Council would meet on Friday to discuss retaining the present class of conscripts in service.

TILLS PROGRAM

The plan premier, however, after the Chamber from the 100,000, thundered that France intended to keep peace by:

"1—Our own military measures.

"2—The French military alliances with other nations, as a result of German aggression.

"The High Military Council decided on March 22, he said, "first on certain immediate troop movements, and secondly, naming the entire German frontier."

WILL DECIDE

"But it did not take the decision to keep under arms the conscripts due for demobilization shortly. However, on Friday the Council will decide whether these troops should be retained."

Few doubted that the Council would decide to keep these men in uniform until the present crisis. The men, due to be released this month after serving a year, total some 180,000 trained men. They were not included in the two-year military service recently voted by Parliament, hence emergency action is essential.

KEEP SECRET

The Premier settled rumors that France was weakening on her old standard policy, declaring the frame would remain rigidly on a cold basis, despite the present financial and political turmoil, and that the government will continue to issue gold coins.

Flaunders said the French military measures are known, but added cryptically that there are others which the government keeps secret but which perhaps are not among its least efficacious steps to prevent attack.

"France could scarcely let the peace structure built up in the last 15 years collapse," the Premier said.

Death Door

THIS IS the fatal building in which six died and 34 were injured when about 80 merry makers were trapped in a fire which engulfed the Club Rendezvous, a roadhouse in suburban Morton Grove near Chicago. The door in the center of the picture opened inward and in a panicky rush for this single exit it latched shut, so that it could not be opened against the pressure of the crowd.

FOURTEEN NEW MEMBERS

Mrs. R. R. Cheek, membership chairman reported fourteen new members bringing the total membership to 108 paid-up members.

INTERESTING TALK

The speaker of the afternoon was Miss Dorothy Webster, elementary supervisor of physical education.

Beginning with the system of corrective physical education used in the schools of the Richmond District she demonstrated exercises for correct posture, the correction of spinal curvature and other defects in school children by putting a class of small girls through the work.

Sketching the development of the normal child from 5 to 8 years of age she mentioned this period as being perhaps the most interesting in the life of the child. He is then interested only in his own individuality, is generally incapable of team work, or not interested in it, develops his sense of rhythm and his imagination, and actually becomes, in his mind, that which he is interested in, and thus he learns of the world around him. After the age of eight he begins to be interested in other children's activities, according to Miss Webster, and develops the game spirit and team work with his comrades.

WORK DEMONSTRATED

A group of small children from the primary grade did a Dutch song dance; a group of fifth grade girls did the jumping jack dance; another group of 12 girls put on the handkerchief dance, and two girls, Virginia Molino and Mary Ellen Chase, did a Spanish waltz, all to demonstrate the work done by the schools along the line of physical education. The work was also ably demonstrated by a group of boys in a series of very well executed stunts.

At the close of the meeting Miss Webster received the congratulations of many of the parents and P. T. A. members upon the excellent showing the children made.

WEAK AND SKINNY MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Saved by new Vitamins of Cod Liver Oil in tasteless tablets.

Pounds of firm healthy flesh instead of bare scraggy bones! New vigor, vim and energy instead of tired listlessness! Steady, quiet nerves! That is what thousands of people are getting through scientific latest discovery—the Vitamins of Cod Liver Oil concentrated in little sugar coated tablets without any of its horrid, baby taste or smell. McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, they're called "Cod Liver Oil in Tablets", and they simply work wonders. A little boy of 8, seriously sick, got well and gained 10½ lbs. in just one month. A girl of thirteen after the same disease, gained 8 lbs. the first week and 2 lbs. each week after. A young mother who could not eat or sleep after baby came got all her health back and gained 10 lbs. in less than a month. You simply must try McCoy's at once. Remember if you don't gain at least 3 lbs. of firm healthy flesh in a month get your money back. Demand and get McCoy's—the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablets—approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Refuse all substitutes—insist on the original McCoy's—there are none better.

ANOTHER DEMOCRAT

More forward and direct is a comparison from another editor, who, in reality, voices the views of a large number of people in all sections of the nation. He says:

"As a whole the people of this section, which by the way is wholly Democratic in party belief think that the new Deal is like Columbus, America's discoverer. When he left on his sea trip, he did not know where he was going; when he got there he did not know where he was; after he got back he did not know where he had been and he depended upon the other fellow to defray the expense of the trip."

WILL SELECT PARTY

Let us jump from Texas to the State of Washington and there we find a proposition that Long and Coughlin will split the Democratic party with the result that a Republican president will be elected, in an open letter, the editor of the Daily Olympian says:

"The vituperative blasts of Senator Long, in his attacks on President Roosevelt and General Johnson, are but the outpourings of an opportunist who cares little for a national law of the truth in a situation."

"But because of the distress of certain classes of people he gets a hearing, and will continue to get a hearing."

The radio priest realized his audience was fading away while he supported Roosevelt's souring local politics, and with the President turning conservative, he breaks away to denounce members of the administration in terms that draw many with no money, or only small ones.

"Long and Coughlin should accomplish one thing in the next two years; split the Democratic party wide open and make possible the return of the Republicans to power, a result much to be desired by thinking Americans if the country is to be lifted out of the doldrums of the dole and saved from government by demagogues."

"The United States has always survived such rantings, will once more climb back to the levels of a more civilized industrial democracy, which neither Senator Long nor Father Coughlin represent."

WE DIDN'T SAY IT

Perhaps we lay ourselves open to the accusation of bias by printing these stanzas of sentiment, indicating the direction of the political wind, but it must be remembered they come from Democratic, not Republican sources, and if partisan then the blame must lie where it belongs.

That there has been a revolutionary reversal of sentiment should be evident to any person who keeps in touch with the trend of events. It starts right in the cabinet, is glaringly apparent in Congress and is manifested among the people of the nation at large.

Succinctly stated it is a general belief that the New Deal has

Lodi Man To Be State Printer

SACRAMENTO, April 2. Alvin Stockhausen, director of Finance, announced the appointment today of George H. Moore, publisher of the Lodi Sentinel, as State Printer succeeding Harry Hammond, Byron publisher, who was named to the position by the late Governor Ralph W. Hoek.

The appointment will become effective April 15, and in accepting it, Moore returns to the State print shop in which he was a linotype operator 30 years ago.

been a fizzle and that the promises made of a return of prosperity have not been carried out. Good intentions never worked an economic miracle or put men to work so they could be self-supporting and self-respecting. Until the Democratic party shows some evidence of being able to accomplish these vital things, loss of faith in it and its policies will grow more pronounced with the passage of each day and Huey Long and Father Coughlin will continue to augment their adherents.

Damage Suits Set For Trial

MARTINEZ, April 2. May 1 is date for trial of a $3,000 suit filed by Simon S. Brown against Francis C. Brannan, Frank Brannan and Emma Brannan, Swanton, who on October 3, 1934, as he crossed San Pablo avenue at El Cerrito, near Alameda avenue, he was struck by a car driven by Brannan.

Damages of $3,000 are asked by Josephine Xerome in a suit, no filed against the Southern Pacific Coast Gate, which will be tried May 8 before a jury.

Sue says that on December 17, 1934, when she started to walk down the "Golden Gate" ferry she slipped on an oily and greasy surface, suffering a fractured leg. She charges the company was negligent in allowing the apron to remain oily and greasy.

BIG SAVING IS PROMISED BY THE SHERIFF

MARTINEZ, April 2. Stating that he proposes to effect a saving of $15,326 in the operation of the sheriff's office in the county, Sheriff John A. Miller today addressed letters to the board, the house of supervisors and the county's legislative representatives urging amendment of a county ordinance to permit payment of civil cost collected by the sheriff to the county. As the law now stands the sheriff is authorized to retain civil fees.

Accompanying his letter, Miller submitted to jury members and officials an itemized account of the savings he expects to make, listing the saving for the sheriff's office as $11,711.50 and for the jail which is under the sheriff's jurisdiction, $3,614.50. His estimation requires to be paid to the county will amount to $500 annually.

If the county broadcasting station for police work is provided, which has been requested, and which it is estimated, will cost $6,000, the net saving for the year will be $9,326.10.

Miller estimates that he will cut a last year's expenditure of $10,231 for operative wages to $7,900; last year's expense for telephone and telegraph from $3,342 to $1,700; mileage from $18,113 to $11,000; criminal case expense from $3,286 to $2,500; and will eliminate a last year's photo expense of $1,500 through establishment of his own photographic department. His summary of expenses and budget covers every expenditure in the office.

The DAILY WASHINGTON

MERRY GO ROUND

WASHINGTON, April 2—Republican Congressional leaders bluntly put no credence in Herbert Hoover's disavowal of 1933 political ambitions.

Their conviction that secretly he has his eye fixed on next year's campaign is so firmly fixed as their determination to do everything in their power to see that he does not get it.

This undercurrent animosity is one of the most remarkable phenomena in the contemporary political scene. Resentment against the former President is as widespread and fresh among Congressional Republicans today as when he left the White House 25 months ago.

Asked to comment on Hoover's latest flash, Senator Floor Leader Charles McNary remarked: "I am not interested in anything that gentlemen has to say."

This same attitude of Congressional Republicans toward their former chief.

Not only are Hoover's opinions resented, but his persistence in airing them is considered a handicap to the party's chances of staging a comeback.

North Dakota Senator "Jerry Nye," prominently mentioned as a vice-presidential possibility next year—gave terse expression to this feeling at a recent gathering of Republican leaders.

"If it should come to pass that this is a case of Hoover or Roosevelt," he said, "there will be only one choice—and it won't be Hoover."

AUTHOR

Huey Long is writing a new book. Taking a leaf from Upton Sinclair's famous campaign document "I, Governor of California," the Kingfish is at work on a volume which will outline in detail exactly what he will do "when" he becomes President of the United States.

A title for the projected opus has not as yet been chosen.

A suggested one—much favored by Huey—is "My First Year in the White House."

Huey plans to open the book with his taking the oath of office on the steps of the Capitol, to include his inaugural address, the names of the men who will compose his Cabinet, the message to the special session of Congress, which he would convene, and the legislation he would ask it to enact to put his "share-the-wealth" program into operation.

Sinclair sold over 250,000 copies of his book. Huey thinks that a sale of 10,000,000 copies of his volume is a reasonable estimate.

DIFFICULT PROBLEM

The President is finding the task of strengthening his White House secretarial staff no easy matter.

Congressional leaders and inner-cabinet advisers with whom he has discussed the problem vary widely as to the type of man he should pick.

Some of the Brain Trusters favor Charles A. Beard, the historian.

Another group is urging the selection of Frank Walker.

They point out that while the wealthy, publicity-shy former head of the National Emergency Council is a conservative, he is also an excellent personal terms with the left winners.

Another group—chiefly southern Old Guards—have put forward a different choice.

Arguing that the chief need of the President is an experienced political go-between and manipulator, they suggest that he draft Secretary Dan Roper from the Cabinet for the job.

To persuade Roper to relinquish his adored cabinet post it was proposed that he be given the title of "Assistant to the President."

The President has indicated to several intimates that his first choice is Walker, whom he regards highly, but expresses doubt that he could persuade him to accept the appointment.

But although it is only a few hours distant from the Capital and although his quarters have been kept ready for instant use, he has given no sign of coming there.

A guest visiting the Island last week-end reported much caustic comment on the President's slighting of the club's invitation.

"I wonder why he doesn't want to come here," one member remarked.

"Maybe it is because there are too many Democrats around," observed another.

"WHILE THE PATIENT SLEPT," a guaranteed laugh and thrill evoker and "Evergreen," a romantic musical triumph will be the double bill at the popular playhouse. Above is a scene from "While The Patient Slept."

Hollywood Film Shop

HOLLYWOOD April 2—UP—The earliest form of entertainment, wherein the caveman amused himself by casting shadows on the walls of his cave with the light of a flickering fire, is being used as a novel experiment in motion picture photography.

While many films have been made with certain shots that emphasize shadows and silhouettes, it marks the first time they have been the theme for an entire photographic "plot."

The light and shadow technique is being used by Henry Sharpe, photographer on "The Glass Key," George Raft's latest at Paramount.

He chose this method he said because heavy shadows, and bright lights gave a tone of mystery to the picture that is in keeping with this particular plot.

In a scene where Raft is sitting in an office in the daytime, brilliant sun rays are thrown on the wooden blinds. The resultant shadows on the opposite wall give a strong contrast between the bright sun outside and the shadow office according to Sharpe.

A classroom scene shows the shadows of the card players projected thirty feet high on the opposite wall while the actual faces of the actors are in shadows.

In a tense sequence where the atmosphere is almost electric, faces of the actors are lighted from the opposite side. All that is to be seen is their silhouettes, with the occasional gleam of an eyeball. Their voices alone "carry" the scene.

As the tension grows, Raft walks into a ray of light and the camera moves toward him. When the tempo glides back into the mellow dramatic, he steps again into the shadow, so that he makes a mysterious shadow on the wall.

When the sequence doesn't permit silhouettes, Sharpe uses hard lights to continue his theme. Instead of the diffused light that gives a soft tone and contour to the players' faces, he shoots hard bright lights at them. The result is a sharpness of shading that actually gives a heightened emotional effect, Sharpe declares.

Deep shadows give a sinister look when cast around the mouth and eyes. Lights placed at another

K. C. Council To Conduct Drive

Conte Costa (Richmond) Council No. 2711, Knights of Columbus, will rank high among the California branches of the order in the nationwide Mobilization for Catholic Action movement being fostered by 2500 subordinate councils of the society. It was predicted by Grand Knight William Laiz and Mobilization Chairman W. Dawling of the local council. Every day and evening during this week, and continuing into next week, tens of officers and volunteer workers are to call on disaffected Catholic men of this city and vicinity, to discuss with them the K. of C. Plan of Catholic Action and Accomplishments, and enroll them as members of the order.

Since the formal opening of the mobilization campaign on St. Patrick's Day, more than 20,000 members have been enlisted in the United States and Canada, according to address received by Northern California area campaign director, Joseph O'Connor of San Francisco, from international chairman, William P. Larkin of New York City.

The drive for more Catholic membership in the ranks of the Knights of Columbus has been given the formal Papal Blessing of Pope Pius XI, and of the five North American Cardinals, and other leaders of the American hierarchy, including Archbishop John J. Mitty of San Francisco, and Bishop John J. Cantwell, Los Angeles; Bishop Robert A. McManus, Sacramento; and Bishop Philip Scher, Fresno-Monterey diocese.

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT

By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, April 2—Edward H. Hattiman's old mansion on Fifth Avenue and 69th street has been sold, and another one of the few remaining fashionable private residences of its era will disappear from the famous thoroughfares.

The five-story, brownstone landmark, with its iron balcony on top, was built forty-five years ago, and in 1909 the railroad official and financier remodeled it to serve as his town house. Hattiman died shortly after, but his widow and children entertained there frequently in the later years.

It was a center for the great in New York's social ranks. Other eminent families were close by: Adolph L. Saks' home lives right next door, just across the street is the O'Brien L. Mills house. Nearby are the dwellings of Kermit Roosevelt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney and Myron C. Taylor.

The Hattiman mansion will make way for another apartment building. The era of leisure and privacy in New York life will soon be nothing but a page in the local history books.

WHAT'S WRONG? Tallulah Bankhead is one of Broadway's most perplexing stars. Wildly publicized, her name known everywhere, she nevertheless has had tough going in almost all of her plays in recent seasons. The revival of "Itain" closed last week after a brave but short-lived attempt to reestablish Mammoth's classic in popular favor. Other recent vehicles failed to click.

NIGHTMARE—The "comic" taxidiers are a colorful crew. In their tough days their ranks are drawn from all walks of life, yet they have a distinct group character of their own. Tough and hard-boiled on the outside, but behind it a sympathetic friendliness.

The latest incident in their long saga involved a young lady from the suburbs. She hurried out of one of the department stores downtown, the other afternoon, in a rush to get to a matinee on 44th street. As she was about to open the door of a taxi standing at the curb, she noticed that the driver was slumped down behind the wheel, fast asleep. She rapped on the window and jumped in, and the taximan, awaking with a start, grinned sheepishly as he looked around to get the address.

"Thanks for wakin' me up, lady," he said after she had given him her destination. "I was havin' a bad dream."

BRIDE BY LEGACY

By R. G. MONTGOMERY

Mary Dean is trapped by the will of her Uncle Nathan, eccentric old millionaire. He bequeaths his fortune to Mary and her younger brother and sister, Jerry and Ann, but only on condition that Mary shall marry Jarred Marsh, son of an old friend of her uncle's. Jarred, summoned from his home in South America, is a stranger to Mary. But unless she marries him, Jerry and Ann will be cut off without a penny. Don Harvey, newspaper reporter, who is in love with Mary, insists that she defy the will, but Mary and Jarred agree to marry. Mary receives a note from Don indicating that he has learned something. He says he will be at the Cafe Ell that evening, and must see her. When she throws the note away, Carmie De Loss, who was Uncle Nathan's secretary, shyly retrieves it.

Mary hesitated a second. "The Cafe Ell serves good food, and we can dance if we care to." "Fine."

THE Cafe Ell was exclusive and expensive. It had a reputation for fine food. Jarred sat back with a satisfied air and scanned the bill of fare.

"Shall I order for you, too?" he asked.

Mary slipped her wrap back from her shoulders and patted her hair.

"Please do."

Jarred ordered duck and sherry. Mary scanned the diners at the other tables. She was irritated with herself for suggesting the Cafe Ell. She wished she had had the will power to ignore Don's note. But she had not been able to resist the curiosity it had aroused in her.

The duck arrived and Jarred poured sherry. Mary tasted hers.

"Why don't you two dance?" Mary suggested.

"Oh, you must dance with Jarred. I'm really not trying to steal him, but Rio is so fascinating, and he has been telling me all about it." Sarah was dabbing powder on her nose.

"Run along and dance," Mary smiled. "Jarred will have plenty of chances to tell me all about Rio."

"So that's the way it is?" Sarah laughed.

Jarred frowned and got to his feet. "Sure," he said.

SARAH and Jarred whirled away across the floor and were soon lost in the crowd. Mary leaned back and waited. She was acting like a little fool, she told herself. Here she was giving Don his chance, if he had come.

"Thanks for the opportunity," Don's voice sounded behind her. Mary started and turned.

"You?" she said coldly.

"Yes, me. And I've got to talk to you."

He slid into the chair beside her. His clothes were in need of pressing, and his tie was carelessly knotted. Mary had a desire to pat down a belligerent lock of hair that was standing up on his head.

"I'm afraid you won't have anything to say that interests me, unless you might tell me how much you got for that lead story in the Leader."

"Don't ride me. I didn't get a cent for it, not even a raise in pay," Don answered earnestly.

"Then why did you run it?" "Hunch," he grinned. "And still have the hunch."

"You came here just to tell me you have a hunch?" Mary's eye brows lifted.

"It's a real hunch and, in a couple of days, it will be proved or blown up," Don leaned forward.

"In that case it doesn't interest me, because Jarred and I will probably be married by that time," Mary looked at him defiantly.

"Don't stare at her a full minute. Slowly he got to his feet. "Well—sorry I bothered you, he said stiffly. "I'll dash along now."

He turned on his heel and left her.

Mystery Fall Of Man Probed

BERKELEY, April 2—UP—A University of California student party was investigated today as one of the guests lay in critical condition in a hospital with a fractured skull and a broken leg.

The victim, Eugene Cabill, San Francisco, fell from a third story window as a co-ed, Charlotte Riddor, called from the pavement for him to throw down her purse.

Tom Olliphant, a student, was questioned by police and released. The related Cabill recently had acted peculiarly, butting his head against walls at parties and taking 15 to 20 aspirin tablets at a dose.

He, as well as other guests, said Cabill appeared to have leaped from the window. Cabill was quoted as having told police he was trying to open the window and lost his balance. He is not a student at the university.

after dinner. If you do not mind his dashing off?" Sarah was plainly impressed by Jarred's dark attractiveness.

"Not in the least. You can stay and dance with us," Mary answered.

SARAH called Tommy, her husband, and he was introduced to Jarred. Mary could see that Sarah was burning with curiosity. It was plain that she had read Don's newspaper story and knew that Jarred was the man. But she asked no questions, and Mary offered no information. Tommy was a big, good-natured, young man who talked of nothing but business.

Dinner progressed pleasantly. Jarred talked to Sarah, and Mary devoted herself to Tommy to keep the party balanced.

By the time dinner was finished, Jarred had finished most of a second bottle of sherry. He was glowing. Mary sensed that he wanted to dance with Sarah.

Tommy folded his napkin. "I have to dash now. Big doings up at our office. Consolidation of two firms that will mean a big job for Tommy," he grinned. "Goodbye, honey," he said to Sarah. "Glad to have seen you folks."

He nodded to Mary and Jarred, took the dinner check, and hurried off.

Despite the pain in spine and neck, he went back to work, and did not see a doctor until the ship docked here today.

Then he found that his back had been broken in two places and his neck in one.

position occupied by Mrs. Lamson's. The slightest effort to lift her after she fell to the floor under conditions assumed to duplicate those involved in the Lamson case caused the body to slide backward into the tub, with arms and head projecting, Heinrich insisted.

Late in the day Prosecutors Allen Lindsay and Herbert P. Bridges demanded that the defense repeat the experiments described in a bathroom to be set up in the courtroom.

"We further demand that the subject be a person more nearly the size of Mrs. Lamson," Bridges said.

DECLINED TESTS

Defense Attorney Edwin V. McKenzie declined, saying that no bathroom the State could produce would be that in the Lamson home. Lindsay retorted that the latter bathroom was too small to accommodate the jury to permit retrial of the experiments.

"These remarks are prejudicial misconduct," McKenzie shouted. "The State has no right to demand anything from the defendant. I demand the jury be advised to disregard such remarks."

STIDES SHOWN

Judge Robert R. Syer so advised the jury.

Early in the afternoon the courtroom was darkened and lantern slides, taken by the defense, were shown, portraying bloodstains found on walls of the bathroom. The exhibition was given after Judge Syer had overruled State objections.

McKenzie announced he would produce a "surprise" witness tomorrow, but declined to expand the announcement. It was believed the witness might be Deloris Roberts Sorenson, former nursemaid in the Lamson home.

Sinclair Sounds Rallying Call To Members Of Epic

LOS ANGELES, April 2.—UP—Two rapid-fire moves by Upton Sinclair, tall, gray-haired stand-up comedian, and his "End Poverty" movement, who has been in political retirement since his defeat for the governorship last Fall tonight were interpreted as a rallying call for "Epic" forces.

The first was a message to State Senator Culbert L. Olsen, leader of the "Epic" block in the State legislature. It was Sinclair's first move of an outright political nature since he lost to Governor Frank Merriam last November.

SECOND BROADSIDE
The second was a broadside against Governor Merriam, whom he charged in a statement, copyrighted by the Los Angeles Post-Record with having "failed to accomplish any of the results promised for his administration."

The message to Olsen was regarded as the most significant move Sinclair has made since his defeat. It indicated the elderly author-politico is still at the controls of the "Epic" movement from the semi-seclusion of his Beverly Hills home.

LAURENCE OLSEN
Sinclair congratulated Olsen on his fight for the "production-for-use bill"—drafted on "End Poverty" principles—which was defeated in the legislature. The message added:

"Your defeat was a moral victory. You were right in attaching an urgency clause to your production-for-use bill. The situation is urgent and the urgency of the people will compel urgent action by the legislature. Stick to your guns. The people are with you."

At the close of the bitter and spectacular campaign last Fall, Sinclair threatened that "even if business of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, keep 350,000 members at work for an additional 60 days, prevented a stampede of other disgruntled workers under the miners' umbrella.

Steadily organized labor is pointing upon the Administration to support the Wagner labor disputes bill. The measure is now before Congress and is expected to pass. It has been subject to various attacks by industrial groups and company union representatives.

NO CONFIDENCE

Labor has no confidence in the ability of the Administration to enforce section 7-A of the NRA and is throwing its full weight behind the Wagner Bill, which makes the principle of collective bargaining a law of the land and creates an independent board which would serve as a Supreme Court for labor.

President Roosevelt has not only stated his position on this measure. The Administration opposed a similar bill in the last Congress. Trade unionists hope this year have been buoyed by a remark the chief Executive is reported to have made when an armistice between labor and the New Deal was reached in his offices two weeks ago.

One of the labor conferees at that time blamed the vast amount of unrest among the workers to the lack of enforcement of Section 7-A of the NRA and emphasized the necessity of enacting the Wagner bill. The President is reported to have replied vaguely that some measure of this kind should be passed by this Congress.

Defeat of the Wagner bill or a similar measure providing new safeguards to the workers, labor leaders said, would make it impossible for them to keep unhappy employees in check and endanger the President's hopes of maintaining peace in industry.

Gangster's Wife To Serve Life Term

DENVER, Colo., April 2.—UP—Mrs. Catherine Thorne Kelly, wife of the notorious George (Machine Gun) Kelly in a decision handed down by the tenth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals here tonight, must spend the rest of her life in the Federal prison.

It was the last of numerous appeals by the defendant in the Chas. Urschel kidnapping in Oklahoma City, Okla., July 22, 1933. Five other defendants including the husband, mother and step-father of Mrs. Kelly were given the same sentences under the Lindbergh kidnapping law.

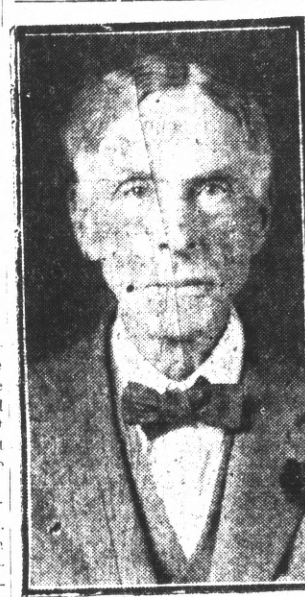

The Kellys were arrested by Federal authorities two months after the kidnapping in Memphis, Tenn.

Aid Was Given Through Fear

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—UP—Fear of a gang ready to kill at a woman's notice drove her to extend certain certified cooperation to "Baby Face" Nelson and his aides, Frank Cochran, Reno gangster, infamed in testimony today.

Cochran, one of seven persons charged with conspiracy to harbor the late Public Enemy No. 1 was the first defendant to present his case.

He revealed something of Nelson's "killer" nature when he told of two occasions on which the gang chieftain threatened to wipe out Federal agents who were seeking to trap him in Reno.

A submachine gun strapped to his shoulder, Nelson stomped along the lonely Virginia City-Reno highway last October, angrily threatening to attack the agents, Cochran said.

"I refer to the original Townsend bill," Sinclair told the United Press. "The plan now proposed in Congress is different and requires a different attitude. I have not studied it sufficiently to be able to voice my views on it."

PURE POLITICS
"Quite apart from any question as to the merits of the Townsend plan, Merriam's support of it was a piece of pure political demagoguery. It is contrary to his whole philosophy, and the only reason he favored it was to buck a Democratic Congress and President."

"In all matters where it would cost the privileged classes a single dollar, he (Merriam) does not act at all."

Sinclair declined to say whether his action was to be construed as an emergence from political retirement.

"I am watching events," he said. "When—and if—the time comes that I feel called upon to act again, I will act. Meanwhile, I feel quite free to criticize openly, as I choose. I am not on probation."

Oil Company tanker La Brea, which was being unloaded by Seattle strikebreakers under protection of 100 policemen, said the shot was fired at him from the dock. Police could not find the sniper.

Seattle business men organized a "committee of 500," pledged to maintain an open port and prevent a gasoline and oil shortage. The group "will not tolerate conditions which tied up the port last Summer, throttled business and destroyed the lucrative tourist travel we have the right to expect," said Alfred H. Lundin, president of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce.

POLICE ARE SENT

Two other tankers, idle for days in Seattle harbor were to be unloaded.

Police and seamen in Portland strengthened their waterfront forces, although there were no loaded tankers in port. Two tankers were in the stream, needing non-union crews before they might sail.

Fifty pickets went to their posts at two docks with the promise of C. E. Carter, business agent of the union, that no unlawful acts were intended. He said, however, that strike direction now was out of his hands, and in those of a joint strike committee representing the seamen, masters, mates and pilots, marine engineers and lesser unions.

Portland Chief of Police H. M. Niles sent a special detail of 60 police to guard the tankers.
